Small LEDON Castle model for toddlers

The Guinevere model comprises a small play tower in the LEDON Castle series, offering fun, play and development for children of different ages. Toddlers can easily access the play tower via the steps, and everyone can whizz down the slide. When children use slides, they train their gross motor skills and balance, while at the same time becoming familiar with gravity.

A model that stimulates children's motor, social and language development

The hanging prison is guaranteed to spark children's imagination and encourage lots of role-play and games. The rubber slats function as a door between the inside and the outside, while also stimulating the children's sense of touch. On the key panel, a key is pushed into several positions, while there are clear views through the prison bars. The light passing through the coloured transparent roof panes is cast onto the floor and ground, inspiring various games, such as 'the floor is lava'.
