A dreamland for young pirates

Atlantic is one of the three largest ships in the Pirates series. All three ships are packed with play activities, but vary in terms of the slide option. The pirate ship Atlantic is designed with an open slide from a height of 90 cm. In the same size of pirate ship, you will also find LP411 Olympia, which does not have a slide, and LP415 Alexandrina, which has a tube slide from a height of 190 cm.

These large pirate ships are a dreamland for all young pirates, and when they are this big they can accommodate a lot of children. There are countless play activities, for example all the moving parts such as the two ship's wheels, compass, anchor, bell, rubber slats, telescope, keys and so on. In the Captain's cabin you will find the treasure chest, dungeon, diamond panel, rubber slats, the movable crab, the underwater dome and many other activities.

The big windows on each side of the cabin allow adults to keep an eye without disturbing the children engrossed in their play. In the bow you will find the telescope, treasure chest and the cargo room, which can be accessed through the rubber slats. The two large masts with the parrot really emphasise the design of the pirate ship.

A pirate ship with an open slide

The biggest pirate ships give you two aft decks, one with a floor height of 90 cm and the other 190 cm. On the lower aft deck you can ring the bell, look out for land through the movable telescope mounted on the lookout barrel, or go down the slide. The upper aft deck is accessed via the climbing wall panel or by scaling the large climbing net at the stern. When children climb, they perform cross-body movements which stimulate neural activity between both sides of the brain, and this helps them to learn to read and write. On the upper aft deck you can steer the pirate ship with the movable ship's wheel or look at the
